Where it happened

TODAY we are young and eager. The aspirations of youth and the joy of life are ours. We feel deeply concerning the future and its problems.

Lest we forget in days to come the needs and desires of other young people, we have attempted to capture and record bits of our own youth's elusive gaiety and more serious hours.

To help us understand the youth to come—to keep us young in heart—that is why we made this book.

TO the soldiers, sailors, and marines—men and women of East High School who fight to preserve the freedom of all mankind and to promote the dawn of an everlasting peace
—this book is dedicated.

*U*NDERLYING each successful achievement is a well-laid plan. People, places, and events all serve to develop that plan into a completed pattern.

Ours is a pattern for democracy. We pay respect to the administration and faculty who have encouraged its development.

Write from the heart

"Miss Teacher, are there four parts of speech or six?"—"Does a sonnet always have fourteen lines?" "Please may I be excused from giving my oral theme today (the voice drops to a whisper), I can hardly talk!"

The English Department answers these and many more questions for students anxious to develop the noble arts of comprehension and self-expression. Our splendid library offers a suitable atmosphere for contemplating such problems.

With work all finished, the boys enjoy a magazine or two.

With quarter grades about due the girls lose no time in finishing their budgets.

On business bent

"jjj—fff—jjj—fff—Hmmm—who said typing was hard? I can do it with my eyes shut. See!"—and thus the student slowly learns to type.

This mastered, he launches out into the field of mysterious curves and becomes acquainted with Shorthand.

Debits and credits give him no end of trouble. Little does he dream that one little red cent could give anyone such a headache.

With Bookkeeping, Shorthand, and Business English completed the student leaves the Commercial Department prepared to give his employer efficient service in the business world.

What makes it go?

The Science Department offers courses in General Science, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and this year something new has been added—Aeronautics.

Biology students chuckle ghoulishly as they examine the construction of an embarrassed crayfish, as an example of Class-Crustacean.

The perfect Chemistry student remembers all his valences, can balance any equation in a flash, and rattle off the heat of formation of any substance—but who wants to be perfect?

In the Physics classes, one wrestles manfully with the right-hand rule and meniscus lenses, mechanical advantages of pulleys, and Archimedes Principle (some wish he had drowned when trying his bath-tub experiments).

Aeronautics delves into the mystery of pre-flight for those who are anticipating military service, and deals with meteorology and aerodynamics.

Microscopes, pulleys, galvanometers, telegraph keys—what a lot of things a freshman must learn!

In any man's language

"Yes, that's the very spot! Now my translation reads—"

It is not difficult to find at East High students who know that "Omnis Gallia tres portes dividit," for some students take Latin. It is also easy to find students who can give literal translations of "Besame Mucho," for some others read Spanish. "Parlez-vous francais?" readily brings an answer, "Mais oui," from the French student. Upperclassmen understand when one inquires, "Sprechen sie Deutsch?" In fact, East High is just full of talent for conjugating and declining.

Classes of the Language Department do not want for variety. One day brings a movie of Mexico, the next a concert of Spanish music, a dramatization of Caesar, or a recorded lesson in French diction. Then sometimes for more serious purposes, text books are used too.

In postwar days when we take our own helicopters and go out for a short spin to see our friends in Mexico or Paris, how nice it will be to understand the traffic signals and be able to get around without using sign language.

"With a-one, and a-two, and a-three, and a-rest! With a-right, and a-left, and a-over, and up! All right, girls, twenty times around the track and then we'll plunge into our folk dances after five-minutes of collapse-time!!" Girls' Gym!

Then there is the Commando Tactics Course for Junior G-Men used by the boys to systematically demolish and sling together again the gym on their days.

For girls of a practical nature there is a course in Home Nursing. Here the girls become model nurses and learn how to make beds that bear no resemblance to the Rockies. They search for pulses; they take your temperature; yes, they even give first aid when needed.

Page 16, Instructions: "To make a bed, for the baby, you first tie two chairs together, next take a sheet and fold the corners thus, then—"

"To the left—fall! To the right—fall! Get ready for a wheelbarrow race!"—these and other commands are swiftly executed in the boys' gym classes.

It all adds up to this

East High offers an invigorating course of brain-blitzing subjects in mathematics. For instance, as a teaser, the young and innocent student may take Arithmetic, or if he chooses, Algebra, a bracing subject for a beginner. This he either flunks or passes.

For the sake of a happy ending, we'll say he passes—and so, feeling gay, he signs up for Geometry, Plane (if he wants college credit), Practical (if he's machine minded.) If the student comes through this with flying colors—or even banners at half mast—it's a sign of definite success.

Now he can afford to be reckless. Consequently, he has a brief fling at Advanced Algebra. If this ordeal is survived the student is usually mathematically impervious to all failure, so he signs up for Solid Geometry and Trigonometry which slide by with no effort at all—well practically none!

Talk of the hour

"Tell me, little chum, do you know why George Washington stood up in the boat while crossing the Delaware? And did you know that John Paul was one of the Jones Boys?" These are typical of the $64 questions passed up in East High's de-luxe American History course. Seriously though, have you read "Fight for Freedom" or "Our American Heritage"? American History classes know them.

Most World History students can be found any time in the library, pawing through dusty volumes searching for Napoleon's tailor, or the more intricate clauses of the Magna Charta—burdening themselves with factual knowledge so as to be prepared when John Kieren retires.

Progressing further through the Social Sciences, Civics looms on the right—for those who desire to wrestle with Superior Courts, Electoral Colleges, and Inter-State Waterways Commissions; while on the left is Economics—for the student who wishes to mutter to himself incoherently as he catechizes on bureaucracy, autocracy, plutocracy, aristocracy, democracy, and the "Psychological Effect Upon the Adolescent Mind of Detrimental Environment As Evincing In Criminal Tendencies."

Global horizons keep a history student working fast to know his geography today.

Yarn, paper plates, water colors, strips of pink and green paper—the workshop class finds them all useful in creating original designs.

"But can't you see—that it's a tree!" Ah, but that kind of statement isn't heard in our Art Department—they don't draw trees. The East High art student dabbles in watercolors, poster paint, colored chalks, and charcoal. Not only does he sketch and paint, but models in clay, carves soap, makes block prints, and designs flashy book covers.

The Art Department also supervises the stage scenery for all plays, and performs that great service to the school—the never-ending task of poster making. Its work in connection with the Junior Red Cross was a splendid contribution to East High's war effort.

The Music Department includes Chorus, A Cappella Choir, Orchestra, Band, and Harmony, all of which interest the student with a taste for music. In addition to furnishing the music for numerous school convocations, the class plays, the Christmas Cantata, and other school events these organizations often appear at Parent-Teacher meetings, Teachers' Institutes, and other local programs.

Yum'. Yum'. Custard pie! And do I like pie?

By hook, by crook, by rolling pin

The Sew and Sew Club spent the afternoon at the Annex Apartment of Miss L. Stoddard, where they stitched a bit and made a bit in their Style Show.

"What is that tantalizing aroma?" inquired a stranger roaming through the halls.

"That's Miss Norman's Foods class baking one hundred pounds of cookies of all flavors and shapes to be sent to various Army camps during cookie week."

"No, no samples!"

Of course some of the nice smell might have come from the cafeteria where students in Cafeteria Management plan, prepare and serve our lunches.

Wistfully watching the foods classes from the annex windows are the girls in the Clothing Department. Maybe you can't have your cake and eat it too, but you can show off your dress or suit in the annual Spring Fashion Show.

Freshmen and sophomore boys are given a foundation for industrial training through Shop and Related Drawing courses. Those boys showing interest and ability advance to more difficult work and often win recognition for East High in the state exhibitions.

Who said miracles don't happen? Then what are girls doing in Mr. Carlson's Mechanical Drawing classes? Here is the answer: The girls of East High are recognizing their responsibility, and will be ready to do their part in solving post-war problems. Of course there are still a few boys in the class too.

We have Mr. Matthews and the boys in the print shop to thank for the printing of the Auroran, posters, library slips, school stationery, etc.

Go to the Print Shop if you want to see organized activity—but don't ask for some pie. Matty never serves it.

They aren't SeaBees but they are East High's construction battalion exhibiting some of their handicraft.

Where all but angels fear to tread

"To the office at the end of the hour!" These words are familiar to almost every East High student for sometime in the course of his high school career everyone comes in contact with the office staff. The office is the center of great activity, regulating and running the entire school.

Although the office staff issues hated "7:30's" to those who are tardy or commit other minor crimes, it is always willing to help students in any way possible.

Many students are acquainted with the bench just inside the office door. Here one sits while waiting to see Mr. Walters, sometimes for the purpose of asking his advice on what college he should attend, or getting his approval on committee plans, or sometimes talking with him about things less pleasant and more personal.

We wonder if the Principal checks on the office girls too or is this just a friendly inquiry?

Days of our years

Remember that day in September, four years ago when we first came to East High as freshmen? That Age of Freshmen when we had no individuality, but each of us was just another person that filled up the halls. Weren't we mousy-looking creatures then? No girl dared wear lipstick; and all of us thought a pancake was something to eat with maple syrup, not something to smear on our faces. That was the time when the boys wore more than one inch of hair—no synthetic "blonds" or "redheads" then. That was the time when shirt tails were worn inside; loafers were lazy people, not comfortable shoes; and anybody could buy a pair of saddle shoes with real red rubber soles.

No one ever thought of going down town after school then. We led such narrow lives. We walked home—studied, ate—studied again, and went to bed by nine-thirty. But we learned! Mr. Cravens taught us how to find the unknown "X." We survived that awful Friday morning when we gave our first oral theme. We read about Sir Lancelot and Guinevere in "Idylls of the King." We tried to look intelligent when Mr. McAfoos told us about electricity and carburators. We struggled through those first few months of Latin and French so that we might be "cultured." Dutifully we attended manners classes, secretly wondering if those self-assured seniors really practiced what they preached when they smiling told us to "always dance six inches apart."

Then it was June. Those green vines had started growing—straight and strong—up the ladder of success!

Then came the dawn! As sophomores of East High, we began showing signs of having some kind of personality—some originality—we were individuals! Now we stopped to get an ice cream cone before we went home to do our schoolwork. And we stayed up until ten o'clock. We studied cross sections of earthworms and the circulatory system of frogs so that we might pass Mr. Davis' Biology tests. Miss Morrison tried her best to clear that haze of spheres, hexagons, and triangles—mysteries that only geometry can bring. Little did we realize that when we took World History from Mr. Day (known to us as "Rosie") we would be learning how he won World War I, single handed. We sat at typewriters, trying hard to learn, faithfully typing and retyping "frf fff ftf" so that we might have "100" budgets.

Who would have thought it? There were singers, musicians, artists, writers and even debators in our midst. We joined Drama to learn how to walk with books on our heads. Then without the books, we marched down the athletic field, in South American garb, carrying flags of Brazil, Peru, or Venezuela for the Pan-American ceremonies. We "decked the halls with boughs of holly" for the Christmas Pageant. We gingerly dipped our fingers in "black-face" to make up the end-men for the minstrel.

We started something new in Girl Reserves. We formed the Freshman-Sophomore club, and appropriately named it the Beta Chapter. With Maryon Keeley as our first president, we proved that we could have better programs than did the Alpha Chapter.

Then, before we knew it, June arrived. One-half of high school was over. The vine was halfway up the ladder. It had sprouted leaves. Its roots were firmly anchored.

In September we returned to school as dignified Juniors. The Juniors of East High, capable of shouldering responsibility. We no longer read the "Bowl" first when the Aurorans came out. We were Juniors. We glanced at the first page, and then read the "Bowl." Some of us even ventured a contribution now and then as cub reporters.

We voted for class rings and waited, and waited, until that glorious day in May when they at last arrived. Whenever anyone opened his mouth and said "ah," we expected that familiar phrase, "Did you hear about the little moron—?" Clothes became more noticeable—skirts became longer, ties grew louder. Max Moulton showed the first signs of becoming East High's "super salesman" by winning the magazine subscription contest.

We studied our class play lines until we were sure that we knew them backwards as well as forward. We staged one of the most unusual plays ever given at East High, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife."

We worked from morn 'til night, the Saturday of the Junior Dance, hanging crepe paper from the track, and decorating the gym with sea gulls, an ocean liner, anchors and waves so that the "Anchor Sway" would look nautical. And the Junior Carnival! Some girls dressed as fortune tells; others spent long hours fastening "fish" on the ends of hooks; boys walked down one hall and up another, calling "Telegram for John Neuman!" "Telegram for Joyce Bartlett."

When we saw the seniors graduate that June, swaying so solemnly to the graduation march, cold shivers ran up and down our spines, because we knew that in one year we would be in their places, swaying in that same way, singing that same song. The vine was three-fourths of the way up the ladder of success. It had developed buds.

Seniors! Noble seniors at last! The elite of the school! It seemed so different at first to be the oldest class in school. We missed last year's seniors. There was so much to crowd into one school year. First there was soliciting for the Speculum—daily trips down town, visits to Aurora's merchants with that same fixed speech—"I am soliciting for the East High Speculum. Would you like to advertise in our year book again this year?" Then making preparations for our Senior Dance, the Hayrack

Jamboree—bales of hay, log benches, and a yellow moon.

The Variety Show followed, with practices every night after school. There was the Can Can Chorus counting, "one, two, three, kick! One, two, three, kick!! and the singing chorus practicing "Stardust." Only June Russell, Jeanne Ruther and Dick Stamm realize the utter disappointment that follows weeks of searching for a "surrey with the fringe on the top," to at last find one, pull it to school in below-zero weather, and then discover it is too big to go through the stage doors. Chief worriers, Marj Shinn and Edith Levedahl had just gotten that off their minds, when up came the Beacon Edition to lose more sleep over.

We also boast of our champion, all-senior basketball team. We are the Regional Champs. We're proud of Bob LaVoy, Big Eight top-scorer.

for producing spectacular class plays. No one could say that "The Lost Horizon" was anything ordinary, with its bolts of lightning, crashes of thunder, and the mystery of the two hundred year old High Lama.

Then things began to happen quickly. Senior cards were exchanged. We were measured for caps and gowns. Senior averages were hopefully figured out. The Class Will and Prophecy were read. The Senior Banquet, Dance, Baccalaureate service—and then, Commencement. It will be we this time, marching down the athletic field. Some of us will be in uniform and some places will be left vacant by boys already in active service.

It will be our class president, Dick Miller, giving the welcoming address. It will be our classmates, Helen Strotz, Laurel Shurson, and Vincent Thompson, giving their commencement speeches. It will be we, receiving our diplomas. It will be we, singing for the last time as students of East High our "Alma Mater"—tears in our eyes and lumps in our throats. And as we sing, we will see those four years of high school pass before us. Perhaps we won't remember everything, but we'll never forget those little things that make up our memories of East High.

Soon it will be over. We'll return our caps and gowns to school. The vine has produced its leaves and buds, and these buds have opened wide. They are the flowers of success.

Keeping things stirred up

Although many remarks have been made concerning the proverbial "burning the midnight oil," it really takes hard study to reach the goal of four "A's", East High's High Honor Roll.

This achievement shows concentration and a thorough application of the rules for study given to all students when entering as freshmen.

Congratulations to the students who made it! Your record is an honor to East High.

Receiving either three "A's" and one "B" or two "A's" and two "B's", a total of 74 students made the East High Honor Roll for the semester ending January 28.

These students deserve credit for their fine work as a result of long hours of study spent in the preparation of difficult assignments.

Let's give them "three cheers."

By maintaining the school percentage well above the required 90%, East High proudly flew the minute-man flag shown by Tom Braaten and Bob LaVoy.

Although the little man with the paint brush expected to work until June, East High bought so many stamps and bonds he finished his work in March. However, he liked us so well, he just stayed on and painted right up to the roof.

Control Station E-A-S-T

"Help win the war" has been the motto of the Student Council during the past year. With this as its primary purpose the Council has sponsored the bond and stamp drive, scrap drives, and other patriotic activities. The goal of the bond drive was set at $50,000; this goal was reached early in the spring.

The Council's members are elected, one from each section, by their fellow students. Together they make the laws and plan the activities for the entire school.

Some of the activities under the supervision of the Council are pep-convos, hall maintenance, the monitor system and the selection of cheer leaders.

Officers for the first semester were Tom Braaten, president; Paul Patterson, vice-president; Joyce Bartlett, secretary. Officers serving the second semester were Bob LaVoy, president; Jack Remissong, vice-president; and Joyce Bartlett, secretary.

*Standing—Jack Remissong, Tom Braaten.
Seated—Bob LaVoy, Joyce Bartlett.*

Knights of the Belle

"Now if you fellows don't—" but what's the use, Mr. Hunter? Dean knows that scowl can't last long.

OFFICERS

Standing—Dick Schark, Jack Remissong, Bob Underwood, Dale Buchner.

Seated—Joe Sunas, Jerry Hughes, Bob LaVoy, Bill Augustine.

From the first day of school until 3:30 June 14, the Boys' Club room was the hub of the activities of East High's "manpower." The club promoted fellowship among the boys with its two parties in November and in March. At these parties the boys watched movies and wrestling matches, then enjoyed refreshments.

Two sets of officers piloted the club, the first semester's being Bob LaVoy, president; Bob Underwood, vice-president; Jack Remissong, secretary-treasurer; and Jerry Hughes, sergeant-at-arms. Taking over at mid-year were Bill Augustine, Dick Schark, Joe Sunas and Ray Buchner.

The club undertook the founding of the Service Club—an organization for all boys anticipating military service in the near future.

Early in the winter, manners classes were organized and conducted by senior students for the benefit of the freshmen.

More than a match for the wolf pack

"Big ones are five cents and little ones are two for five". . . "What do you wear to a formal tea?" . . . "Congratulations, Choddie" . . . these were a few of the oft repeated phrases heard in the Girls' Club room as the year '43-'44 became history.

Throughout the year the Club was seldom idle. Freshmen were welcomed at two parties. Cookies of all shapes and sizes were sent to servicemen after the cookie week drive. As soon as the girls had time to survey East's manpower, they drafted escorts for the Girls' Club Witches Whirl.

At the end of the semester, Effie Chioles, president; Dorothy Mehlhorn, vice-president, and Barbara Cowherd, secretary, relinquished their offices to Charlotte Kraus, Jean Louise Kennedy, and Mary Lou Lafferty.

Bow Week bowed out as a most successful enterprise, then the club turned to the Spring Card Party. Ivy Day and a tea given for the seniors completed the calendar of activities.

OFFICERS

Standing—Jeanne Louise Kennedy, Mary Lou Lafferty.

Seated—Barbara Cowherd, Charlotte Kraus, Effie Chioles, Dorothy Mehlhorn.

"I'm from the East High School. I've come to see you about our yearbook, the 'Speculum'. You do want to be a patron, don't you?"

We put on our best smiles, squared our shoulders and tried to look intelligent. We solicited merchants, business and professional men, clubs and lodges. We spoke with confidence—and secretly wondered if we looked as nervous and insignificant as we felt. At first we worried, fearing that we might forget our little speeches, but soon the words became so familiar we solicited in our sleep and counted Speculum patrons instead of sheep. Our dream came true when we reached a goal of $900.

Next we selected the theme and drew up a dummy. Underclassmen sections posed and "watched for the birdie" and proud seniors made appointments for individual pictures.

Editors were chosen and departments were assigned. Marjorie Ann Shinn, editor-in-chief, supervised all activities. Copy poured in from Barbara Cowherd, Betty Grady, Edith Levedahl, Coralie McCarty, Max Moulton, Pat Murrin, Jean Parker, Phyllis Steinkamp, and Betty Weston to June Russell, literary editor.

Following fuchsia to the finish

Virginia Marshall, photography editor, and her assistants—Joyce Bartlett, Luise Brandt, Effie Chioles, Frances Duy, Louise Fraenhoff, Marion Senft, and Vernon Walters, scheduled appointments for pictures, trimmed and mounted photographs.

The business department, under the direction of Jeanne Ruther, business manager, directed finance and distribution. Members serving in this group were Lisbeth Brandt, Elaine Conrad, Lorraine Glossop, Virginia Henderson, Phyllis Seech, Julia Soos, Gertrude Taylor, and Ruth Walsdorf.

Phyllis Bender, manuscript editor, and her staff—Hazel Bouelle, Anita Gephard, Marilyn Ingle, Maryon Keeley, Dorothy Mehlhorn, and Lois Volkel typed all copy for the printer.

Copy was proofed, checked, and rechecked. Things happened so fast that some of us even entertained the thought of quitting school to get our book out on time. Then suddenly all our work was over. The last piece of copy was sent to the printer and we had only to wait and pray.

It's your book now—our gift, as seniors of East High, to our school. Treat it kindly and think of us sometimes for we shall never forget you.

... the busy din of hurried voices that reverberated from the staff room only hinted of the work and play that brought news from all East High into the pages of The Auroran . . . jokes, practical and impractical, came from all sides and the funniest were noted and re-used for the entertainment of the patrons of The Auroran's most successful variety show, "On The Air" . . . typewriters clicked out a fun-packed script, dancers practiced 'til the music stopped, and singers warbled sweetly over 'Station EAST'. . . then, at last, on the historical night of February 18, the dreams and hopes of all its promoters came true as "On The Air" was pronounced 'on the beam' by a clap-happy audience . . . earnings of the show were quickly dented by the circulation department . . . East's servicemen demanded more Aurorans, and boys home on leave made the staff room their headquarters as they roamed East High's halls . . . hot news of important dates in the school history were recorded . . . Debating the question "Resolved: that the United States should join in reconstituting the League of Nations," the East High debate team completed a successful season. The varsity debate squad composed of affirmative, Patricia Murrin, and Helen Strotz, with Vincent Thompson as alternate, and negative, Donald Mitchell and Eugene Muckensturm, with Joe Suta as alternate, placed second in the Big Eight Conference. They also participated in the Augustana and Elgin tournaments, and in the Metropolitan Debate League. Helen Strotz ranked third in original oratory.

The freshman-sophomore team, consisting of affirmative, Mary Howard and Elaine Brecke, with Therese Worland as alternate; and negative, James Watson and Donald Ernst, captured first in the fifth annual Frosh-Soph meet held at East High.

Other affirmative debaters were Joanne Matthews, Norma Pfeifer, and Carol Mattison.

If you were to visit Miss Lulu Bredlow's Drama class, you might find gypsies, Chinamen, clowns or minstrels—results of the make-up committee. Or perhaps you might have the pleasure of watching a group of, as yet undiscovered, performers rehearsing for their debut on the stage of East High.

While the nervous actors deliver the goods, the hard-working stage crew drills holes through the ceiling of the stage and adds to the confusion by scattering bits of plaster to the four corners. We only hope that the stage still boasts of a ceiling by the time this book is published.

Monthly reviews of plays are presented, and for variety, the speakers compete with the rumpus raised by the Commando Boys, below in the gym.

Once a student overcomes these obstacles, you may be sure that he will never suffer from stage fright.

Sweet and low

East High boasts of two melody makers' groups, the A Cappella Choir and the Chorus. Under the direction of Miss Pouk, they have greatly enjoyed their work the past year. The two groups practice separately, and at different hours—after all, it would be confusing to hear "Chloe" and "Recessional" at the same time.

One of the requirements for membership in the A Cappella Choir is that the aspirant be able to navigate without tripping in the maroon robes of the society. This not only adds grace to the general movement, but also keeps the robes clean.

Each group presents individual performances during the year, in addition to several combined programs. As the type of music studied in each is similar this is not difficult to do. Both try to develop solo as well as group singing.

Many of the students in the choir came out for the Variety Show, and we were astonished at the number of hidden Frank Sinatra's and Dinah Shore's—replete with screams and sighs. But, alas, not one heroic Caruso or miniature Flagstad appeared. Anyway who wants an accent when you can have a bankroll?

A persistent tapping, an engulfing silence, the upraised baton, all eyes intent, the signal, and—music by the East High Band.

Any day of the school week during the last period of the day, you may hear music drifting down from the fourth floor. It may be a peppy march, an overture, or even a popular piece, for it is here that boys are taught instrumental technique, and learn to play every type of music.

Again the baton is raised, silence, the signal, and music. This time the band is not practicing, but performing. It may be the Spring or Fall Concert, a P.T.A. meeting, Senior Day, a pep meeting, a Red Cross drive, or perhaps a football game, or parade.

Mr. M. W. Day, the director, leads their activities. The trombone section is well represented by the officers of the band; John Neumann, president, and Ray Wagner, vice-president.

During the past year many former members of the band who are now in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, have returned and in relating their experiences, have said that the marching routine they practised so diligently in the band has been of considerable value to them in the service.

Music to our ears

I hear a rhapsody

From the music room, any third hour, may be heard the strains of selections ranging from "Beethoven's Fifth Symphony" to "Mairzy Doats." Versatility is the keynote of the East High Orchestra. Under the leadership of Miss Gertrude Tienison, who conducted the first semester, and Miss Mary Goddard who took over at mid-year, compositions representative of many types of music have been studied. Emphasis is placed on the individual sections, a method which has brought pleasing results. The Orchestra made an outstanding appearance with the Senior Class Play.

Lay that gavel down!

"Here comes the bride—all dressed in white." With love-stricken expressions on their shining faces, the victims, alias, two sentimentalists of Junior Delphi, walk arm in arm down the flower-strewn aisle.

Yes, all this and more you must endure to become a respected and renowned member.

Mock weddings, stories of Peter Rabbit, and visions of flag pole sitters have been some of the saner topics of Delphi this past year.

Believe it or not, the Delphinians do learn the rules and regulations of parliamentary drill—that is, provided by Mr. Hubert Davis, the faculty advisor, gives them the old eagle eye.

"Will the senator from Tennessee please resume his seat?" "Yes, you have to speak on the assigned topic." "Oh, all right, appeal to the critic if it will give you any satisfaction!!" How familiar are these words to juniors and seniors who compose the sedate body of Senior Delphi.

With all the dignity and twice the confusion of a real congress, Senior Delphi convenes eighth hour Thursdays in the chambers of 201, with Miss Dorothy Youngblood its critic.

Senior Delphi's purpose, to learn the fundamentals of parliamentary drill, is sometimes obscured in the hilarity and bustle of its many activities, but nevertheless, "a good time is had by all."

French, Latin, and Spanish Clubs offer convocations and meetings for the enlightenment and entertainment of their members. Special programs feature plays, movies and guest speakers. Every foreign language student is eligible for membership in the club representative of the language he studies.

French club officers for the year were Patricia LaSuer, president; Bob LaVoy, vice-president; Wilma Farris, secretary-treasurer.

Leaders in the Spanish club were June Regnier, president; Phyllis Steinkamp, vice-president; Joan Thomas, secretary-treasurer; Florence Banks, program chairman.

First semester officers of the Latin Club were Jodeen Dix, president; Mary Howard, vice-president; Norma Pfeifer, secretary-treasurer. Directing the activities of the club the second semester were John Harkness, Norma Pfeifer and Carol Metzler.

Cosmopolites

A-b-sees

That girl wearing a crisp blue and white checked gingham apron and a neat white blouse with the triangle insignia, and doing volunteer work in your hospital was a Girl Reserve. This is one way the Girl Reserves are showing their eagerness to serve their country and community.

Special programs this year included a style show, conferences, and joint meetings with Hi-Y.

Beta officers were (back) Carol Metzler, Sallie Huston, Delores Risvold; (front) Annette Keeley, Joann Sennett, Kathleen Keeley, Mary Terebessy.

Alpha officers were (back) Virginia Marshall, Joyce Bartlett, Frances Duy; (front) Phyllis Steinkamp, Helen Strotz, Luise Brandt.

Torch-toters

As the Girl Reserves satisfies the needs of East High girls, so the Hi-Y and the Torch Club bring fellowship and entertainment to the boys of this institution.

Hi-Y membership is limited to junior and senior boys. The Torch Club selects its members from underclassmen.

Torch Club officers were (back) Al Parcell, Pat Ruddy, Jim Clemmens, Don Ernst; (front) Don Hansen, Walter Stern, Jim Hillock, Bob Crable.

Hi-Y officers were (back) Elmer Olson, Jim Miller; (front) Jim Presbrey, Bob LaVoy, Juddy Weber.

Not all Junior Red Cross work is as easy as hanging posters but the leaders—Max Moulton, Joyce Britton, Betty Grady—handle it just as efficiently.

Under the banner of the American Junior Red Cross, East High has contributed much to the war effort since the reorganization of the local chapter in December, 1942, under the direction of Miss Louise E. Hutchins.

Since each student is automatically a member, it would be impossible to enumerate the individual achievements of the many boys and girls who have given freely of their time and effort without thought of personal gain.

During the past year, under the guidance of the officers: Max Moulton, president; Betty Grady, vice-president; Joyce Britton, secretary; and Joe Suta, treasurer, the Junior Red Cross held three drives for funds: the first in November, 1943, that netted $102.00 for the Junior Red Cross War Fund; the second in March, 1944, totalling $300.00; and the third a dance in May for the National Children's Fund. On the first two occasions, all-school convocations were held.

Members of the organization presented a brief survey of the work of the Red Cross.

The Art Department with the assistance of Miss Jessie Shirley and Miss Dorothy Pooley made writing tablets, scrap books, desk pads, menu cards, tray covers, and thousands of greeting cards for service men in hospitals.

The clothing classes under Miss Lucile Stoddard and Mrs. Marie Rogers made many useful hospital garments and layettes. The local office was furnished additional office help through the staff assistants, and many girls volunteered each week to make surgical dressings.

On September 15, 1943, the American Junior Red Cross was twenty-six years old. Twenty-six years ago the Juniors were 8,000,000 strong. Today, our nation, again at war, has over twice that number working to serve with the adult members of Red Cross. East High is proud to belong to the Junior Red Cross.

Service beyond self

What! No bottle stretcher?

The Science Club, under the supervision of Mr. Roger Stutz, is open to all Chemistry and Physics students. This club secures speakers and movies for the enlightenment of the members.

Behind all the equipment stand Bob Davidson, president, Bill Hauser, Dick Stamm, Jeanne Kennedy, secretary, Marilyn Buckberg, and John Neumann, vice-president.

The Projector Club renders an invaluable service to the students of East High. The members of this club operate all the projectors that afford us those ever popular movies. Mr. Roger Stutz acts as adviser.

Membership to the East High Commercial Club is open to all students taking a commercial course. This club endeavors to familiarize its members with the various phases of commercial work in the business world. Educational programs featuring movies and speakers are secured for the commercial students under the auspices of the Commercial Club.

The Commercial Club encourages the development of higher standards of efficiency. For speed and accuracy tests awards are usually offered by the club. Initiative and willingness to assume responsibility are rewarded with leadership. Miss Gertrude Pittz is the faculty adviser.

Smooth going

It's 3:55. As Johnny Jones passes the library, he suddenly remembers that economics report.

There are 9,000 volumes in the library but perhaps only one holds the solution to his problem. Because Johnny's time is limited he takes his problem to Miss Allen, Library Science advisor, or to a member of her class. If the guide is experienced, he may be able to lead Johnny directly to the book or magazine that is to solve this problem. Some times it is not this simple but with the aid of a "Readers Guide," an exact file, and a library science student, Johnny J.'s worries are soon over.

Bill Augustine and Perry Powell set a fast pace for all distance runners.

Speed Merchants

East's track squad, a team that is described by the Chicago Sun as being formidable, entered the Oak Park Relays April 1. In this first meet of the season the Tomcats entered every event from the first heat of the high hurdles to the sprint medley relay.

With Captain Tom Braaten and other returning lettermen the team looked forward to a successful season as many promising new tracksters made their first appearance in competition.

Tomcat hurdlers were Johnny O'Neil, Doc Nelson, Lee DuSell and Jack Baker, while Duke Neal and Ray Buchner represented East High in the fifty yard dash. Main hopes in distance running were Herb Fechner, Bill Augustine, Bill Shaefer, Perry Powell, and Bob Perkins.

Featured in the eight lap relay were Dale Dungan, Jack Harkness, Dave Marti, and Doc Nelson, with Bill Augustine, Don Burns, Jack Baker and Perry Powell in the sprint medley.

In field events Captain Braaten was entered in the high jumps, Duke Neal in the shot put, Perry Powell in the broad jump, while the pole vaulters were Bob Underwood, Max Kenworthy, and Bob Smith. In general the team was one of the best East High has had in quite a few years.

G. A. A. CALENDAR

Sept. First general meeting — new members learned rules and regulations of G.A.A. Hockey began at Young School. Manager, Irene Wagner.

Oct. Bowling began at Sylvandell. Manager, Marilyn Buckberg. Swimming began at Y.W.C.A. Manager, June Gemmer. General meeting in the gym with Mr. Maze as speaker. Hockey tournament got underway, (everybody had bruised shins) Carolyn White finally got around to that long delayed treat—Pop and cookies!

Nov. Monthly meeting — Mrs. Feldman, our school nurse, was the speaker. Freshman given G.A.A. test—all of them passed—we wonder how?

Dec. Initiation of freshman—it was messy but fun to see them slithering through wet spaghetti and cracker crumbs—bare footed. Marguerite and Carol looked very smooth with bananas all over their faces too. General meeting—Miss Reich, speaker. Basketball began with Kay Conover and Ann Duff as managers — but too many interruptions — gals working, Variety Show, Christmas vacation.

Jan. Monthly meeting.

Such, B. Dorion, B. Fink, M. Senft.

Feb. Basketball teams were picked and we finally got some good competition. Monthly meeting — mid-semester freshmen invited — received all G.A.A. information. Sports managers' meeting.

Mar. General meeting in gym—skit given entitled "The Fatal Quest."

The Alumni Basketball Game—a highlight of the season.

Class basketball tournament—who can beat those seniors?

April Volleyball began during the noon hour,

Manager, Sylvia Hora. P.T.A. demonstration. Badminton began with Lois Volkel as manager. Tumbling began—manager, Marguerite Zilly. Monthly meeting, Movie on health.
